Healing Prayer Group & Sick List

THIS group is made up of ordinary Christian people who believe in the power of prayer, put their faith in God and want to pray for you.

It meets regularly to pray for everyone on our Sick List and in our Book of Prayer.

All requests are treated in the strictest confidence.

If you would like prayer either write your request in the Book of Prayer at the back of church or contact Tom, Bryan, Jonathan or Mary Mumby (see Directory, p34 & 35).

PRAYER for Healing takes place in the small chapel. It is usually at the end of a service, either morning or evening. You can ask for prayer for yourself or for someone else.

We will pray with you that you may experience God's healing and that you may have a sense of his presence with you, his love, his peace and his support through the Holy Spirit.

Whoever you are, and whatever your needs, you are welcome to come and ask for prayer.

This month's edition has some great Harvest themed articles - many thanks to all our contributors, including great photos courtesy of Bill Cunliffe for Lydia's farewell. Hopefully the articles and publicity will bear fruit with new recruits for the flower arranging team (see Sara Leefe's article on page 15) and in a healthy attendance at this year's Harvest celebrations on Sunday 13 October and indeed exciting "DIY carvery" to follow. We look forward to welcoming Revd Roger Smith as our guest preacher for our "All Together" Harvest Festival service at 10.30am. We have been invited to join Roger and our Methodist counterparts in their month of prayer. If you have material for the Review - particularly anything Remembrance themed for the November edition - we would be delighted to include it.

Tom writes ...

One of the perks of being married to the Director of the Leeds Church Institute is that you get to meet all the guest speakers at the Hook Lecture over a meal beforehand.

Over the years I have got to meet Frances Young, Giles Fraser, Sara Maitland, Bikhu Parekh and Jonathan Bartley. This year I am already looking forward to meeting Canon Mark Oakley who is coming to speak at Leeds Minister on 27 September.

For an indication of how good he is as a speaker why not listen to the sermon he preached at the ordination of deacons at St Edmundsbury cathedral this year: a masterclass of how to inspire people in less than 8 minutes (on the cathedral website under “sermons”).

Helen has written a book review of Canon Oakley’s latest book The Splash of Words in this month’s review (page 23). In it he makes the point that poetry is life-giving for all of us. Or, as the current ABC Justin Welby puts it, “poetry is vital for all Christians ... it helps us grow in faith, hope and love.”

Helen is kindly taking on the library at St Giles from Sue Grahame. The library, kept in the Church Hall, is a wonderful but unquestionably underused resource which Sue has built up over many years into a veritable treasure trove of spiritual resourcing.

Nick Pinches mentions in this month’s Churchwardens Blog his own gratitude to Sue (and indeed John) for all they have done over the years and I would like to express my own. This Church is greatly in their debt for all they have done behind the scenes to enable our flourishing in Christ.

Roger the Methodist minister and myself now meet regularly and have discovered that we share a love of poetry. Hence the reason for this year’s Advent course, an opportunity to look at particular poems as we journey through Advent together (for further details please see page 23).

I was delighted to come across a copy of Janet Morley’s poetry anthology “Haphazard by Starlight” (from the last line of U. A. Fanthorpe’s Christmas poem BC:AD) in the Church library. We intend to get a number of copies of the book available for people to buy or borrow from the start of November.

Harvest interview with Jill Perkin

Have you been involved in farming all your life?

Yes, I was born on Stubbings Farm, on Leeds Road. My father was a farmer of 100 acres. I belonged to the Young Farmers and met my future husband, Richard at a Farmer's Ball in Otley. When we married Richard bought the farm from my father and continued to farm it though we lived in the house by Golden Acre. Richard also came from farming stock, being born at High Barn Farm in Adel.

What type of farming?

We found my father's milking herd too restrictive so we acquired a beef herd, sheep and suckling cows. Richard also grew Christmas trees and provided the church with one every year.

Has it been a fulfilling life?

Oh yes! I always loved being outside with Dad, even when my Mother tried to dissuade me. At the age of 9 years, I was riding on the back of the tractor once, Dad lifted the back up and I managed to get my foot crushed but it didn't put me off.

Do children today understand about farming?

Farming has changed a lot over the years. To make a living from farming the farm has to be big so the smaller farmers have to diversify. Children's farms are ideal to teach them that milk just doesn't come from Asda! We used to have the local primary schools visit and Richard loved explaining it all to them.

How has your faith played a part in your life as a farmer's wife?

I've always gone to church so I wouldn't know any different. I used to run the Sunday School in Otley when Canon Clayton was there. My Grandma used to live in the Cemetery Lodge (now demolished) on Moor Road so I used to pick her up, then my mother and go with them to the Mothers' Union at St Giles.

What were the worst times?

The weather. The winds and the rain. The water would run off the Chevin and I remember when it took out walls and fences ... just like what happened in North Yorkshire this summer. There was also the time when Richard came off his horse and broke his femur. He was in hospital for 14 weeks and I had to milk the cows!

What were the highlights?

Definitely hay time. We loved bringing the hay in and riding on the cart horses. It was also around my birthday and I remember sitting out in the garden round the 'Pig Plonk' (a large table that they used to slaughter the pigs on) having my birthday party.

Guess how many churches the Church of England has to maintain? 4000? 7000? 10,000? In fact the Church of England is responsible for 16,000 church buildings, 12,500 of which are listed buildings. And with the overall decline in congregations and subsequent lack of income (just ask Bernard), it is increasingly difficult to maintain some of these tiny parish churches.

Some become redundant churches and many end up in the care of the Churches Conservation Trust (CCT), a charity raising money to repair and find a use for these ancient buildings. Some of these uses are very imaginative. St Paul's Church in Bristol has been transformed into an open space for filming, conferences, hot air balloon testing, and exhibitions of circus skills!

Jugglers outside St Paul's Church Bristol

The tiny St John's in Blawith was transformed into living space for local people. The CCT project at All Saints in Langport in Somerset is now a project run by young people to provide new opportunities and skills.

Another CCT initiative is champing, i.e. camping in a church (a bit like glamping only without the yurts). They persuade some idiots to pay good money to go and stay in a very old church with no water or power in the middle of a graveyard, and to sleep on camp beds in the nave.

Well, myself and another idiot spent two nights champing in St Leonard's Church, Old Langho, Lancashire in July. It was during that very hot spell and the cool, if rather dusty, church was very welcoming! Tea, coffee, bottled water and camp beds were provided, with torches and lamps. We won't discuss the loo.

We had two very peaceful and enjoyable days and nights. 'Our' church, as we came to call it, was built in the 1550s but the building materials came from the nearby Whalley Abbey, a 13th century Cistercian abbey dissolved by Thomas Cromwell in the 1530s.

Farewell to Lydia

At the end of the Evensong service on Sunday 18 August we marked Lydia's last organ playing before she has her baby.

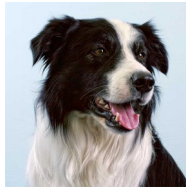

We give thanks for her commitment to playing the organ at the evening service, her help as part of the band (playing the violin) and organising music for a number of social events over the years. Thank you Lydia!

Harvest interview with Jill

Poppy, Jill's dog, gave a sigh and reminded me it was time to stop.

"Have you ever been without a dog"

I finally asked. "Only for four months when we were first married. We then took on Tim, the farm dog from Richard's parents." she replied.

It's always a pleasure to chat with Jill Perkin and this interview for Harvest was no exception.

Thank you Jill.

So the stones and windows which surrounded us as we slept were at least 800 years old. The roof timbers were even older, as they would have been well seasoned when they were first used in the 1200s.

The CCT uses a number of churches as champing sites, one to suit every size of party, all the way from Orkney to the West Country. Check them out at the CCT website.

Flower Arranging...

This article is the second in the series on “behind-the-scenes”. These articles inform the readership about the different individuals and groups that are crucial in allowing the church to function.

As the ‘Church Flower ladies’ we ensure that there are fresh flowers in the church every week and many people do compliment us on our different arrangements. As you will know from the magazine, we have a monthly rota of people who generously arrange and pay for their flowers arrangements themselves. It might be to remember a loved one or just because they enjoy having the chance to do a pedestal arrangement. Each month there is a team leader who ensures the flowers are ok for funerals, weddings etc and passes the key round the volunteers.

At Harvest, Christmas and Easter we all get together to decorate the church. These flowers are paid for out of the ‘Flower fund’ as well as the oasis and accessories used. We prepare the oasis, collect the greenery and get the flowers the week before and really enjoy all being together on the Saturday morning, arranging the flowers and having coffee in the church. So we make a good team but are unfortunately getting elderly!

Half of the monthly co-ordinators are over the age of eighty.

So how can we persuade YOU to join our friendly team? We would be more than happy to help and guide you to start with until you feel confident. Many people say “Oh but I can’t arrange flowers” but it’s not true! AND to prove it come along to a demonstration on Thursday 7 November in the church hall at 2 pm. We’ll show you how easy it is to arrange a pedestal and we’ll be serving tea and cakes too.

Please contact Sara on 0113 267 4188 if you are interested.

PCC Update

Tom chaired a meeting of the PCC on 10 September 2019.

Church finances were as always a particular concern. Members of the PCC are trustees of the charity (ie St Giles' church) and their first concern is for the future of the church and the importance of managing and preserving our financial resources. It was decided not to draw on any financial reserves to pay the parish share this year. The PCC are delighted that Elizabeth Johnson has agreed to be our Safeguarding Officer. Liz will be known to most of you and her professional background and commitment will be invaluable to the church in this important role.

The PCC discussed a paper presented by Bernard Williams entitled 'Responding to Change'. Bernard laid out imaginative ideas to encourage the growth of the church in the changed circumstances we are in with a part time instead of full time vicar. Circumstances will inevitably mean a greater involvement by the laity. Bernard outlined five areas of concern ie Outreach, Communications, Worship, Pastoral Care and Work with Children. The PCC appointed chairs to lead these five working groups, and will consider reports from them at the next PCC meeting in November. Please think if any of these are areas where you would like to help and look out for the tap on your shoulder!

The PCC were sorry to bid farewell to John Grahame. Sue and he will be 'emigrating' (to Wales!) very soon. John has given service to the PCC for about 20 years in all, and St Giles has benefitted from his thoughtful and careful advice. We wish them well in their new abode.

Jenni Hall, PCC Secretary

A Harvest Prayer

Bring to fruition, Creator God,
the work of your Kingdom.
Make us a part of that joyful harvest
in which your loving purpose is completed.
Help us to realise how important the smallest words and deeds are in the context of eternity.
At harvest time, when we remember your goodness, make us grateful also for all we have received from the labour of others who have sown the seeds of faith, hope and love in our lives. Amen.

Quote of the month

“ Jesus carried out his ministry at the speed of walking, not at high speed. Love has it's own speed. It is a spiritual speed. It is a different kind of speed to the technological speed we have become accustomed to. ”

Three mile an hour God*

Warden's Blog

After many years as faithful members of the St Giles community, John & Sue Grahame tell me they have decided to accomplish a long-held desire to live near the area where they first met, Bangor, north Wales. They are planning to leave Bramhope in October.

Both have given their significant time and talents to the church; John, as a PCC member with responsibilities for H&S, and part of the 'technical crew' at the back of church and Sue as Librarian and Archivist. We are very grateful for their significant contributions over the years and wish them health and happiness in their new home.

Steve Giles has offered to continue with the routine safety checks that he and John have been carrying out but would welcome the offer of help with this. Helen Reid will be taking over the Librarian role from Sue but we need someone to offer to make sure we look after our archives in a sustainable manner. Please let me know if you are interested in either of these roles. Thank you.

The Splash of Words. Believing in Poetry

Mark Oakley (Canterbury Press, 2017)

The book starts well, so don't skip the introduction to get to the 'main event' of the poems. Mark Oakley makes the case for more poetry in our lives. He points to the way in which poetry evokes a spiritual response, using language to hint at greater truths than those that fit neatly into everyday facts and figures. The business of religion too: poetry and faith are complementary.

Having encouraged us to read poetry (even if we find it hard work) the book then reflects on a range of old and new poetry, one poem in each chapter. In his reflections Oakley explores the spiritual and emotional depths of the poems. In this way he helps the reader to spend time with each poem and gain a deeper understanding.

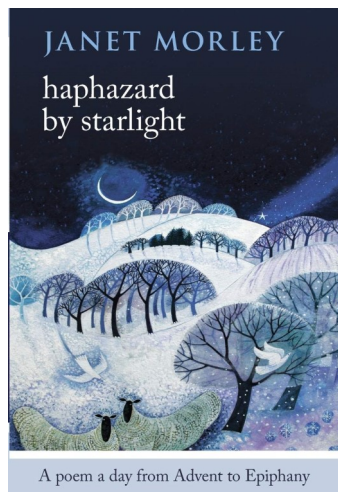

This book is highly recommended and was recently awarded the 2019 Michael Ramsey Prize for Theological Writing. Awarding the prize, Archbishop Justin Welby said: "This book will bring poetry alive to anyone who reads it and shows us how vital poetry is for all Christians – rather than an elite activity. Reading poetry alone and together will help us grow in faith, hope and love." Helen Reid

This book is now available to borrow from the St Giles' Church Library

Stop Press... This year's Advent course will be a joint course run by the two Churches in Bramhope, co-led by Revd Tom Lusty and Revd Roger Smith. The Course will run for four weeks from Thursday 28 November.

We will meet at 2-3pm in the Loft (Fox and Hounds) and again from 7-8pm at St Giles Church on 28 November and 12 December and at Bramhope Methodist Church on 5 and 19 December. We will be looking at poems from Janet Morley's poetry anthology "Haphazard by Starlight". There will be space for reflection on a particular poem each week within an Advent liturgy from the Iona Community.
